

Petru Vaduva

Petru has an MBA degree from Yale University and an BA/MS degree from Columbia University. Following his educational years, he has accumulated an extensive management international experience in various financial, consumer and service industries. He occupied key positions in companies in the United States and Europe, such as JP Morgan, Bear Stearns and Caspian Securities (USA), Renaissance Capital and UralSib (Russia), SEB Investment Mgt and CLSA London (United Kingdom).

As a highly ranked professional in Emerging Markets, Petru has covered; as an analyst, strategist, head of research and portfolio manager, a wide range of companies in industries across multiple continents. His understanding in assessing strategic potentials and development directions will be a key asset in understanding the development potential of our investments and a key selling point to our investees. He has also a solid experience in M&A and capital markets transactions; the second privatization in Emerging Markets, Banco Wise in Peru, the largest privatization in Emerging Market, Rosneft in the Russian Federation, various financing deals with multinational institutions and others.

Petru has an extensive operational and strategic hands-on experience as his strategic and analytical skills were tested successfully later in his career as a CEO of two of the largest and more complex companies in Romania, Tiriac Holdings and SNTGN Transgaz.

This operational, financial and strategic experience can be key not only in assessing the development potential of any company but can also add a solid understanding of the operational needs that can bring the company's potential to reality.
